

The Technician Class license already provides no code entry levels into the Amateur Service for those not willing to put effort into learning the code.

If practice learning Morse Code is desired, the VHF bands should be used. Also short wave listening to Morse stations, code tapes or computer generated code is available.

Allowing voice or image priveleges removes the incentive to learn Morse Code that is vital to the Amateur Service and emergency communication capability.

The Amateur Service has already been structured to accomodate all users of all types and we do not need to lower standards more. Do not accept RM-10781.
